Ward City.

Ward City is a lovely place. Nestling among the hills, With hickory and magnolia trees On the banks of sparkling ritls.

Where flocks of sheep and lowing herds, Safe from the noon day sun. May listen to the mocking birds Till drowsy sleep has come.

A quaint and quiet little town Where we may rest in peace,
And claim these blessings all our own, Under these dear old trees.

We never, never can forget The happy days spent here-O, pity! But must remember with regret The day we left Ward City. UNCLE FRANK
